Five Husch Blackwell Attorneys Named to Top 200 Global Psychedelic Lawyers and Policy & Regulatory Experts Guide

National law firm Husch Blackwell is pleased to announce that attorneys, Kimberly Chew, Karen Luong, Natasha Sumner, Hilary Bricken, and Curt Chase have been named among the Top 200 Global Psychedelic Lawyers.

Chew, Luong, and Sumner lead the firm’s Psychedelics and Emerging Therapies practice, which provides clients a full suite of legal services—including healthcare regulatory, corporate law, corporate governance, banking and finance, and intellectual property, among others—that bear upon the development of new products and therapies.

Chase heads the Healthcare, Life Sciences & Education industry team and is a member of the firm’s Kansas City office. Bricken, based in Los Angeles, is a member of Husch Blackwell’s Food Systems industry group and advises clients in the cannabis, healthcare, and life sciences spaces on transactions, regulatory compliance, governance matters, and other corporate needs.

The third edition of the Global Top 200 list of the best psychedelics legal and policy thinkers includes attorneys with policy, corporate, regulatory, and/or criminal backgrounds, as well as individuals and teams at medical psychedelic companies with legal and policy skillsets, and individuals from universities, the media, and other backgrounds.
