OVERVIEW

Marshall co-leads Husch Blackwell's Cannabis team of more than 80 attorneys dedicated to state-regulated marijuana and industrial hemp clients.

Marshall has worked with the cannabis industry since its inception in Colorado, serving as primary outside counsel for clients that are active in or entering into the regulated cannabis market in the state and nationally. He has earned national rankings in this practice area, working closely with executives and individual entrepreneurs on matters of marijuana and industrial hemp regulatory compliance, corporate structuring, debt and equity financing, governance, securities compliance, and mergers and acquisitions.

His representation of these companies and investors has often included:

"I worked with Marshall Custer and the Husch Blackwell team on corporate and transactional advice regarding a buy-back transaction. The team was direct, practical and sensitive to our small size and evolving needs. Their advice has been spot on in terms of achieving the best goal at the least expense."
