OVERVIEW

Known for systemizing legal teams on behalf of clients, Lynne is a mass tort attorney who sees the big picture in complex litigation.

Lynne is experienced in defending manufacturers, contractors and premises owners as both local and national counsel in complex tort litigation. She has also represented pharmaceutical companies in tort claims based on exposure to numerous drugs and vaccines.

For nearly two decades, Lynne served as Designated Defense Counsel for Bay Area asbestos litigation, allowing her a unique perspective as to how courts prioritize and view mass tort matters. Representing the interests of the defense community as a whole before numerous Bay Area judges in this position, Lynne also worked closely with physicians, scientists and medical subject-matter experts for asbestos cases.

“Thanks to Lynne’s incredible attention to detail, flexibility and expertise, we were able to handle from direct tender to resolution approximately 30 cases spanning nine accounts. We recognize that the esoteric procedural posture certainly didn’t make this an easy feat. Nevertheless, Lynne was still able to produce incredible results!”
