OVERVIEW

Maddie is an energy attorney with extensive experience in oil and gas, real estate, renewables, and tax credits.

Maddie handles a variety of transactional matters, including agreements for onshore and offshore oil and gas and renewable energy projects, real property acquisitions and divestitures, and various stages of business transactions. She has also counseled clients on a wide array of corporate issues, including entity formation, governance, winding down and dissolution, and trademark protections and licensing.

Maddie has broad experience in the energy industry. She began her career as an oil and gas title attorney before moving to litigation and eventually transactional work. She has researched and written title opinions; drafted discovery requests and responses, briefs, motions, memoranda and court orders; and drafted and negotiated purchase and sale agreements, leases, easements, joint operating agreements, mineral conveyances and reservations, and numerous other transactional documents for energy clients. She is also familiar with the overlap between energy law and environmental law, specifically as it pertains to carbon capture and sequestration and renewable energy sources, including federal and state regulatory issues that pertain to the energy industry.

Most recently Maddie has focused on renewable energy investments, which allows her to utilize her skills and knowledge of the industry with her experience in mergers and acquisitions, tax equity, due diligence, and real estate transactions. She's known as a highly knowledgeable transactional attorney with broad energy
