OVERVIEW

With a passion for the environment, Jordan assists clients, primarily in the renewable energy world, with real estate transactions.

Jordan guides clients through the intricacies of development and financing of utility-scale and small-scale renewable energy projects throughout the country. From concept to completion and beyond, he focuses on each stage – site planning, design, financing, and sale – aligning with the client's long-term interests.

Jordan helps energy developers, lenders, and tax equity investors on legal issues regarding:

- Drafting and negotiating site-control documents

- Conducting due diligence on secured or prospective project sites

- Preparing and negotiating real estate curative documents to prepare for financing

- Project financing

- Project sale or acquisitions

With a strong technical natural resource background and prior industry experience, Jordan's dedication and attention to detail drive creative solutions to complex problems.
