OVERVIEW

Reagan is a dedicated attorney with a passion for Real Estate and Development.

Growing up, Reagan saw firsthand how transactional attorneys positively impacted his family's business. This experience, coupled with a desire to assist others in establishing their businesses, inspired him to pursue a career in law.

During his time in law school, Reagan stood out in his commitment to the veteran community, serving at the Baylor Law Veterans Clinic. He particularly enjoys assisting veteran-owned businesses and sees it as an opportunity to give back to those who have served.

Reagan's interest in the Real Estate and Development sphere stems from the multifaceted nature of the field. He appreciates how real estate transactions touch on a wide variety of practice areas, including banking, finance, mergers and acquisitions, and real property law, offering a diverse range of projects to work on.

While at Husch Blackwell as a summer associate, Reagan delved into real estate projects. From closing checklists to researching and document assembly, he played an integral role in client transactions. Now a fully qualified associate, Reagan consistently delivers top-tier work for clients. He also regularly volunteers his legal services through the HB Communities for Change pro bono program.

At his core, Reagan is a passionate advocate with an unwavering work ethic. He's known for his dedication, always giving his best and ensuring clients benefit from his drive to help.
